GO YOUR OWN WAY

Info Kit
Updated July 2015 (CREATE Foundation)

Compiled by Jatinder Kaur (JK Diversity Consultants) for CREATE Foundation.

CREATE thanks the state and territory governments for financial support to distribute this kit to young people.
CREATE Foundation

CREATE Foundation is the national peak consumer body for children and young people with an out-of-home care experience. We represent the voices of over 43,000 children and young people currently in care, and those who have transitioned from care up to the age of 25.

Vision (what we hope for)
All children and young people with a care experience reach their full potential.

Mission (what we do)
Creating a better life for children and young people in care. To do this we:

- Connect children and young people to each other, CREATE and their community to
- Empower young people to build self-confidence, self-esteem and skills that enable them to have a voice and be heard to
- Change the care system, in consultation with children and young people, through advocacy to improve policies, practices and services, and increase community awareness.

We achieve our mission by facilitating a variety of programs and services for children and young people in care and developing policy and research to advocate for a better care system.

CREATE Foundation is the national peak consumer body that aims to improve the lives of children and young people who are in the care system.

CREATE has developed this Go Your Own Way (GYOW) Info Kit to assist you when you are preparing to leave the care system and to support you to develop a plan for your future as an independent adult. Did you know that every state and territory department agrees that all 15-17 year olds who are in care will have a transition from care plan? If you are in that age group, do you have a transition plan? Your caseworker can help you to make a plan.

Since 2008, CREATE has been advocating for change in the area of transition from care. CREATE has published three Report Cards focusing on the experiences and issues facing young people who are transitioning from care (2008, 2009, 2011). In the Report Cards, CREATE surveyed hundreds of young people about their experiences of leaving care.

One of the biggest issues that young people shared with us was that no one spoke to them about transition planning and so they didn’t have a plan or support to assist them. So CREATE has been working hard on ideas to get young people involved in planning their transition towards independence, including talking to lots of young people to get their ideas about what to include in this GYOW Info Kit.

CREATE wants you to feel prepared for your transition from care and have plans in place for where you will live, who you will live with, how you will support yourself financially, and who you can turn to if you need to talk about things or for help if life gets tough. As well, we want you prepared for looking after your health, relationships, employment and training.

CREATE believes all young people deserve the opportunity to learn, work, engage in community life, and have a say in the decisions that affect them. CREATE is committed to supporting young people who have been in the care system to achieve their full potential and overcome barriers.

We hope that you find this GYOW Info Kit helpful in planning for your transition from care and assisting your journey to adulthood and independence.

How to use the GYOW Info Kit

Congratulations for taking the lead in planning for your future! This GYOW Info Kit is packed with information about support services and general information that you will need to know when you leave care.

On the next 3 pages is the Checklist to help you get organised. The Checklist pulls together all the smaller checklists in this Info Kit. It’s not meant to be a quiz! It is meant to help you identify where you may need more support or more information.

As a young person transitioning to independence, it is your right to know what services and options you have available before and after you leave care. When you leave care you should still get the support you need, whether it is about continuing your education, finding work, sorting out a safe place to live, or having someone you can talk to and rely on when you need help.

This Info Kit doesn’t list all of the services and supports available; there may be more in your local area that we could not add. However, if you try contacting the numbers and websites in the Info Kit, they may be able to help you track down other services that can assist. See pages 38-53.

You’re not expected to know everything you need right now. Instead the idea is to look over the list every few months to see what you can mark off as completed and what areas you need to look at next.

You can go through the Info Kit by yourself, or better still with a carer, parent, caseworker or someone else who knows you well. It would be a good idea to take the Info Kit with you to your case planning meetings so your caseworker can support you. If there is something you aren’t quite sure about, or if you need help getting information or application forms, ask your caseworker or call the numbers supplied in this workbook for more help.

The department or funded out-of-home care organisation is responsible for you during your time in care and will have the records about you. You may want to access your case file from your time in out-of-home care. You need to check with your department or out-of-home care organisation about the process for viewing or getting your case file or information contained in it. You might want to consider having a support person with you when you look at your file. They may also have original documents such as your birth certificate or academic records. You should contact your caseworker to get access to these documents, as many young people have experienced difficulties in accessing these important documents once they have left care. It is important for you to prove who you are, as these documents are necessary when applying for a driver’s licence, Australian passport and government benefits (e.g. Youth Allowance).

Important records include:
- Birth certificate
- Health care card
- Medicare card
- Student card
- Vaccination and medical records
- Academic records or certificates
- Proof of Aboriginality
- Personal photos or life story
- Case file
Proof of identity checks

There are going to be times, such as applying for your driver’s licence, Centrelink payments or opening a bank account, where you’ll need to show identification (ID) to prove who you are. Items of ID may be allocated points – you’ll usually have to show 100 points of ID but check with the organisation first.

For the Centrelink “Confirming your identity” form see:

"If you are of Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander heritage, Link-Up provides a range of services to individuals who were affected by ‘Stolen Generation’ their families and adoptive families."
If you meet the criteria you will be able to access help to gain the confirmation letter from an Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander organisation that provides support in obtaining this proof.

If you are of Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander heritage, Link-Up provides a range of services to individuals who were affected by 'Stolen Generation', their families and adoptive families. There are Link-Up services in each state and territory and they can assist you in:

- Researching family and personal records
- Emotional support with accessing family and personal records
- Finding family members
- Assistance and support at family reunions
- Support and counselling before, during and after family reunions.

If you want to contact an Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander service in your state ask your case worker.

Cultural identity

If you are or believe that you have Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander heritage, you may require a letter confirming this. This proof is not required for day-to-day things; it is only needed if you are applying for Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander specific services or programs such as: Centrelink, ABSTUDY, housing assistance, employment or school programs that are Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander specific. To obtain a letter of confirmation you will need to meet the following criteria:

1. Family history information that shows your heritage;
2. Identifying as an Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander person;
3. Being known as an Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander person in either an Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander community where you live, or where your family is from.
If you are from a CALD background, you may wish to reconnect with your community or cultural group. You can contact the peak body, Federation of Ethnic Communities Councils of Australia (FECCA) to find the relevant multicultural service agency in your state or territory.

Family contact

You may want to reconnect with your family when you transition from care. There is support and information available to you. If this is what you would like to do, you can speak to your caseworker prior to you leaving care and they can help to organise and facilitate this.

Sibling relationships are important, and whether or not you live with your brothers and sisters in care, you can talk with your caseworker and carer (and your siblings’ carers) about how you can be supported to stay in touch with them when you turn 18 years old, especially if you move.

Culturally and Linguistically Diverse (CALD) background
As a young person, there are wide ranges of education and training options available to you, these include completing:

- Year 10 at high school.
- Year 12 at high school or TAFE.
- A course at TAFE.
- An apprenticeship or traineeship.
- A university degree.

Learn or Earn

The Australian Government has ‘Learn or Earn’ requirements for 15-24 year olds. These are rules which aim to strengthen the education, training opportunities and support for young people. This policy will affect Youth Allowance payments, however, if you have difficulties and face challenges in participating in education and training (e.g. disability, homelessness, drug and alcohol issues, family dysfunction, juvenile justice issues or mental health illness), you can speak to a Centrelink officer who can assist you in developing a written Employment Pathway Plan to meet these requirements. Most Centrelink offices have Indigenous Liaison and Multicultural Services officers. One of the consequences of not complying with these rules will be that your Youth Allowance benefit is cut.

Some young people take a year off after Year 12 (gap year) and use this time to work, save money or travel overseas, before deciding what they want to do.
Youth Allowance
Youth Allowance is a Centrelink government benefit which provides financial help for young people aged 16-24yrs who are studying full time; undertaking a full-time Australian apprenticeship; training; looking for work or are sick. Other eligibility requirements include living away from home and being independent (e.g. not living with your parents).

Training options
My Future website is an interactive, online career exploration service aimed at all Australians wishing to explore their career options. The website helps you see possibilities in the world of work, identify your own interests and skill areas, set career goals and plan to achieve them. There is a section on 'Year 12 – What next', which brings together a range of information about: training options, jobs, setting up a business, practical experience and further studies.

TAFE
TAFE colleges are located across all states and territories and TAFE’s have an extensive range of education and training programs from various sectors such as: arts, engineering, tourism, business, fashion design and youth work. You can get certificate levels of qualifications, as well as diplomas and advanced diplomas.

Apprenticeship and traineeship information services
The Australian apprenticeship website tells you everything you need to know about apprenticeships, and the benefits of combining practical work, and training and future job prospects.

University
The ‘going to uni’ website provides information about different university courses, the experience of going to university, and how to get financial help with the cost of studying including scholarships.
Generally young people living in most Australian states and territories can start paid work when they are between 14 and 15 years of age. However, if you are enrolled in school or TAFE your employer is obligated under the law to provide you with flexible working hours to accommodate your studies.

The Fairwork Ombudsman can help with information about workplace rights and obligations, including:

- Starting your job
- Pay and conditions
- Tax, Super and HELP
- Safety and accidents
- Problems at work
- Quitting and losing your job
- Getting help

How to find a job

You can search for work by using Internet job websites, looking in newspapers, contacting recruitment agencies [e.g. Hays, Chandler McLeod] and by approaching employers directly. There are a number of services and programs which can assist you and provide you with advice on: job hunting, interview skills, and increasing your experience through volunteering.

Employment & Job Search

Job search and preparation

When you are applying for a job you will usually need a resume, your resume should include:

- Your contact details (mobile & email)
- Education history
- Employment history
- Contact details for references

Jobactive is the Australian government service to help Australians into work:

13 6268

Centrelink can help you with your job choices and with referrals to job service providers.

When writing your resume, the most important thing to remember is to make sure that the information you are putting in is relevant to the job you are applying for, and that it is in a simple and easy to read format. For some jobs you may also be required to address the selection criteria. For example, if you were applying for a waitress position you will need to demonstrate how you meet the required skills, such as serving customers and food handling.

Fair Work Commission

Is the national independent workplace relations tribunal which oversees the following:

- Minimum wages and employment conditions
- Enterprise bargaining
- Industrial actions
- Dispute resolution
- Termination of employment and other workplace matters

inquiries@fwc.gov.au
www.fwc.gov.au

Tax File Number

If you are employed in a job or are eligible for Centrelink payments, you will need to get a tax file number (TFN). To get a TFN you will need to fill out the application form.

For the online form and more information go to:

www.ato.gov.au/Individuals/Tax-file-number/Apply-for-a-TFN/Australian-residents---TFN-application

1300 720 092

You can get a form at selected newsagents or your local Centrelink office.

A lot of secondary schools allow you to get the form and apply at the school office. If you are attending school then ask at your school office if they are able to help you to apply for a Tax File Number.

You will need to provide proof of identity with the TFN application form (see page 13).
Transition to Independent Living Allowance (TILA)

TILA is a one off payment of up to $1,500 from the Australian Government to help young people with their transition to independence. The payment can be used for various items including moving, buying furniture and white goods, counselling, training and education. To be eligible some of the criteria is that you are 15-25 years old and be in, or have been in, formal out-of-home care (on a court order). You must have a case worker and a transition to independence plan. Your case worker should be able to give you more information and support on how to apply for TILA. Not all young people who apply are successful in receiving TILA.

The rules and payment of TILA changed on 1 January 2014. For state and territory TILA contact details, see the Contact Information at the end of this booklet [pages 38-53]. For more information go to the website or send an email:

Your Money Checklist

Being financially independent and managing money is an important part of life. Getting the knowledge and skills that are necessary to manage your money well is very important for young people who are transitioning from care.

The following checklist may help you to understand where your money is coming from, what you are entitled to, and where you can go to get financial assistance to help you to budget your money.

Centrelink

The main purpose of Centrelink is to provide financial support to those in need and to support people to become more self-sufficient. Most often young people will require assistance from Centrelink in the areas of Youth Allowance, Disability Support Programs and Newstart. You can contact Centrelink to find out whether you are entitled to any of these benefits (when you leave care).

To find an office near you, visit the website or call the following:

- 13 24 90 Youth and student services
- 13 28 50 Employment services
- 13 61 50 Family assistance
- 1800 132 317 ABSTUDY for Indigenous students needing help with costs
- 13 12 02 Multilingual services for help in a language other than English.

For other contact numbers for Centrelink, Medicare and Child Support go to: www.humanservices.gov.au

Opening a bank account

To set up your own personal bank account you need to be over 16 years of age and have a tax file number (TFN) and other identification documents (e.g. student ID card, Medicare card and a bill with your current address). There are a number of banks you can choose from, so look for a bank that has accounts that have no or low ATM fees and account keeping fees. Shop around for a bank that gives you a good deal. Once you have decided which bank you would like to join, you can visit a branch and ask the teller to set up an account for you. You will need identification (See page 13 for more information on ID). Once you have filled out the paperwork, you will receive a letter in the mail with your new bank account details on it and your ATM card.

Managing your money

The Money Smart website includes a section for Under 25s on ways to manage money and finances with helpful information on topics such as:

- Leaving home
- Studying
- University debt
- Tips on buying expensive items (e.g. mobile phones, car, home)
- Debts and trouble-shooting

Medicare card

You can get access to your own Medicare card from the age of 15 years. This will give you independent access to free medical treatment in a public hospital, free or cheaper treatment by a doctor, and cheaper medication. You can apply for a Medicare card by completing an application form at your local Medicare office.

Medicare

Health care card

If you receive a Centrelink benefit (e.g. Youth Allowance), you may qualify for a Health care card, which will entitle you to reduced cost medications and other concessions (e.g. cheaper or free visits to the doctor, reduced costs for dentist and optometrist appointments). You can find out if you are eligible and entitled from your local Centrelink office or website:

General health

It’s important to have a doctor that you can see and feel comfortable with when you are unwell or have questions about your health. It is important that you go to a doctor if you think you are experiencing symptoms of an illness or injury. Your caseworker or carer can assist you with finding a doctor, as you may have had a regular doctor while you were in care that has your medical and immunisation records.

You can contact your local Medicare office to find out what immunisations you have had under the Australian Childhood Immunisation Register (ACIR). The ‘Immunise Australia Program’ provides free vaccinations for young people, which can protect you from diseases. See website for more information:

☎️ www.immunise.health.gov.au
Mental health and wellbeing

Our emotional and social wellbeing is pretty important too, just like our physical health. When we have good mental health we’re able to cope better with day to day events. But when we don’t take care of our mental health we can struggle with our feelings and thoughts. If you’re having trouble with your mental health there are a number of support services you can contact that can provide you with advice, counselling and emotional support.

Dental

The Australian government has funded the ‘Child Dental Benefits Scheme’, which helps with the cost of an annual preventative dental check up for children and young people aged 2-17. If you are eligible, a letter and voucher will be sent to you or your carer or guardian. For more information contact your local Medicare office or visit the website:

Family planning and health education

Each state has a family planning organisation, which provides sexual and reproductive health services and education to all young people. They provide assistance in many areas including:

- Pregnancy
- Sexual health check-ups (sexually transmitted infections)
- Contraception
- Sexual orientation
- Violence against women
- Safe sex

The ‘Sexual Health and Family Planning Australia’ website provides a list of all the family planning organisations across Australia and resources:

Disability

If you have a disability, your caseworker can assist you to work closely with the relevant disability service provider to ensure that all the appropriate services and supports are considered in your transition planning. You may also be entitled to Disability Support Pension from Centrelink. See website for more detail:

Rent assistance

If you are receiving a Centrelink benefit (e.g. Youth Allowance, Disability Support Pension or Newstart) you may be eligible for ‘Rent Assistance’, which gives extra financial help to people who pay rent for their accommodation (including private rental, lodging and board). You will need to speak to a Centrelink officer to discuss whether you are eligible for this support.

FOR MORE INFORMATION
Public housing support service

Each state and territory government has a public housing service for people who have low incomes and are vulnerable to homelessness. Your caseworker can assist you to make an appointment to speak to the public housing service in your state or territory. You may have your name placed on a waiting list for public housing. If this happens it is important that you ask how long it may be before housing is allocated to you because in some areas the waiting lists for public housing are very long.

For more information: a list of public housing support services for each state/territory is located at the end of this workbook.

Private rental

These are properties which are owned by property owners and most of the time leased through a real estate agent to a tenant. There are different properties that you can rent/lease including a house, unit, townhouse and granny flat. You will need to contact the real estate agent to arrange an appointment to have a look at the property you like. After you have decided on a place, you will need to complete the application form and provide:

- Proof of identity (e.g. Medicare card, driver’s licence)
- Proof of income (e.g. receipt of Centrelink benefit or wage payslip), and
- Character reference from previous housing or landlord.

Share accommodation

This option is often preferred by young people as it is generally cheaper and more affordable than other forms of accommodation because you are not paying the full rent on your own and are able to share the costs of utilities (e.g. electricity and telephone bills) with flatmates. However, share accommodation often still requires a bond and two weeks rent in advance. The listings are usually advertised in newspapers, real estate agents [shopfronts and online], and on community noticeboards.

Social work services

It may be helpful for you to speak with a Social Worker at Centrelink if you:

- Have become homeless
- Are experiencing conflicts with other family members
- Are experiencing domestic or family violence
- Have lost your job
- Are having financial difficulties
- Have health problems

The Social Worker can assist you by:

- Offering short term counselling and support
- Providing you with information about the range of payments and services available from Centrelink
- Giving you information about community services in your areas

Transport services

Each state and territory government department has a transport service, which provides application forms and information on how to apply for a driver’s licence and learner’s permit. They also have information on public transport (bus, train and ferries), timetables and purchasing tickets.

For more information:
See the list of services starting on page 38 of this workbook.

Enrolling to vote

Any person who is 18 years of age and is an Australian citizen needs to enrol to vote for federal, state and local government elections. Voting is your chance to have a say in the way society is being run. It is illegal not to vote and you can get fines if you don’t. You can pick up an enrolment form at any post office.

Relationships

Building relationships with community, family, friends and partners is very important to your wellbeing. Friendships are those where you feel safe, trust one another and feel that you are able to have fun and share experiences. There are many ways that you can meet new people, make new friends and become more involved in your local community.

Some of these include participating in:

- Sport or recreational activities (e.g. soccer, rugby, netball or surf club)
- Youth clubs or activities held in your local area (e.g. PCYC, YMCA, youth programs run by local council or community neighbourhood centre)
- Creative arts, music and cultural programs

Volunteering

Volunteering is a great way to get involved in your community and support non-government organisations (NGO). You can volunteer at any age and become involved in running a project or assisting with an event. Volunteering can involve:

- Giving your time, skills to a worthy cause
- Not getting paid
- Supporting a not-for-profit organisation (e.g. CREATE Youth Advisory Groups)
- Benefiting the community

For more information see website: www.volunteeringaustralia.org
Healthy relationships

Building relationships with partners and friends is an important part of the wellbeing of every young person. Sometimes there’s a fine line between what’s ok and what’s not. Understanding and respecting the wishes of others is important.

‘The Line’ campaign is aimed at helping young people understand the importance of respectful relationships.

Office for Youth Service

Each state and territory government has an Office for Youth service for young people who develop policies and programs to meet the needs of young people aged 15 years and older. They also provide information on relevant funded youth based services, programs and initiatives.

For more information: A list of the Office for Youth Service for each state/territory is located at the end of this workbook.
Your rights and responsibilities change when you turn 18 years and become an adult. It’s important to know what your rights and responsibilities are, and what you can and can’t do legally. For example, there are laws to protect young people from being exploited in the workforce.

National Children’s and Youth Law Centre

The National Children’s and Youth Law Centre have developed an interactive website for children and young people ‘Know your Rights’, which provides advice and information about legal rights and responsibilities. The information is tailored for each state and territory, and covers a wide range of topics: employment and legal rights, criminal and family law, health and wellbeing, and cyber safety.

In 2009, all state and territory governments endorsed the National Framework for Protecting Australia’s Children 2009-2020 (the National Framework). There are six supporting outcomes to protect children and young people:

1. Children live in safe and supportive families and communities;
2. Children and families access adequate support to promote safety and intervene early;
3. Risk factors for child abuse and neglect are addressed;
4. Children who have been abused or neglected receive the support and care they need for their safety and wellbeing;
5. Indigenous children are supported and safe in their families and communities;
6. Child sexual abuse and exploitation is prevented and survivors receive adequate support.

A key achievement under the National Framework is the development of the ‘National Standards for out-of-home care’, which have been designed to improve the quality of care of services provided to children and young people who are in the care system. There are 13 National Standards, of which Standard 13 is about transition from care planning and is defined as:

A planned and phased approach to transitioning from care for young people that identifies the required supports, based on individual needs, in areas such as safe and sustainable housing, education, employment, financial security, social relationships and support networks, health – physical, emotional (including self-esteem and identity), mental and sexual, and life and after care skills.

Standard 13 specifies that each young person is to have a transition from care plan commencing at the age of 15 years, which includes details of support to access relevant services and is reviewed regularly. All state and territory governments will be required to report on this:

- 13.1: The proportion of young people aged 15 years and over who have a current leaving care plan.
- 13.2: The proportion of young people who, at the time of exit from out-of-home care, report they are receiving adequate assistance to prepare for adult life.

As part of this initiative the Australian government worked with non-government organisations to develop a planning guide. The transition from care plan is to cover the following life domains for the young care leaver:

- Housing
- Education and training
- Employment
- Financial security
- Social relationships and support networks
- Health – physical, emotional (including self esteem and identity), mental, sexual and dental
- Life (after care) skills
- Identity and culture
- Legal matters

The young person is to be central in developing the transition from care plan, and others that may be involved are the case worker, carers, and family members or significant others.
Since 2008, CREATE has published three Report Cards (McDowall 2008; 2009; 2011) which have dealt with issues regarding the provision for, and experiences of young people aged 15-25 years who are transitioning from out-of-home care (OOHC) and have left the care system. The 2011 Report Card surveyed 605 young people across Australia, which found that 190 young people reported having a leaving care plan. The others had no knowledge of the existence of a leaving care plan. CREATE put forward a number of recommendations in the Report Card, including the need for departments and OOHC service providers to explore different and creative ways to engage with young people in the leaving-care planning process.

CREATE Foundation consulted extensively with young people across Australia to develop a nationally consistent ‘leaving care’ resource – the Go Your Way Info Kit.

The GYOW Info Kit is CREATE’s contribution to meeting National Standard 13 of the National Standards for Out-of-Home Care.

In 2014, with the help of state and territory child protection agencies, CREATE distributed over 2,000 GYOW Info Kits to young people across Australia who are preparing to transition to independence.

The GYOW Info Kit and other resources on transition from care can be found on the CREATE website.

CREATE Your Future is a dedicated leaving care website with lots of information to support you in a smooth transition from care. CREATE Foundation also has a CREATE Your Future grant scheme where you can apply for a small financial grant to help with education, driving lessons, or other assistance. Applications are usually called for in May each year. See the website for more details.

YHARS (Youth Housing and Reintegration Service, including After Care Service)
Provides a coordinated and integrated response to the complex needs of young people aged 12-21 years at the time of referral, who are homeless or at-risk of homelessness, and who:
• are transitioning or who have transitioned from the care of the Department of Communities, Child Safety and Disability Services (Child Safety) or have recently exited from care or, are transitioning to the community following a period of sentence or remand in a Youth Detention Centre or,
• have been “sleeping rough” or living in unstable or temporary housing arrangements.

Sortli
Sortli (a contraction of the phrase ‘sort out your life’) is a free mobile app for young people to help with the transition to independence. This app was specifically designed by young people at CREATE and focuses on seven key areas of identity, relationships, finding a place to live, health, finances, gaining education and looking for a job, and general living skills.
Available on Apple, Android or Microsoft mobile devices.
